Becoming a School Trustee

What do trustees do?

School trustees have a very important role in making sure every child at the school can reach their highest possible standard in educational achievement.

Here are some of the things they do:

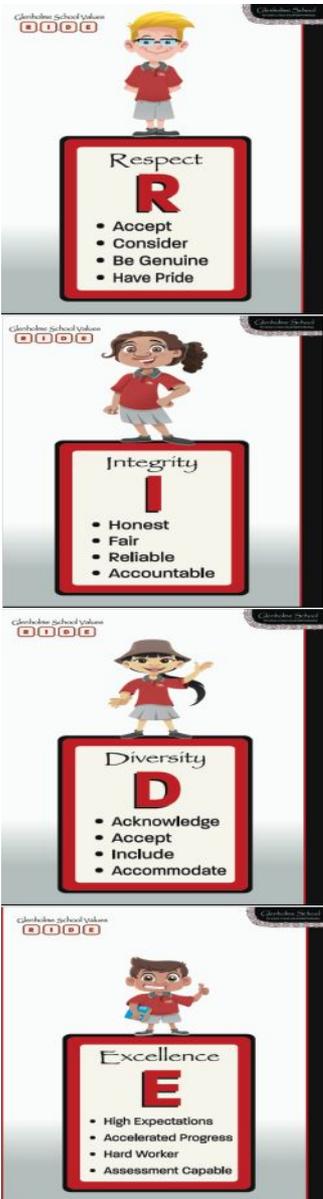

- Work with the principal and consult with staff, students and the community
- Set the educational goals and strategic direction of the school
- Monitor progress and inform parents on how the school is progressing against its annual targets and on the development of the students
- Decide how the school's funding will be spent
- Select the school's principal and support the development of all staff
- Ensure the school is a physically and emotionally safe place for all students and staff, and is inclusive of and caters for students with differing needs
- Oversee the management of staff, property, finances, curriculum and administration.

What sort of skills do trustees need?

Trustees are active leaders in their schools and need a balance of skills and experiences. They need to work well in a team, be able to put plans in place for the school's future, ask challenging questions and have good communication skills. It helps to have strong links to one or several of the school's communities, as well as an understanding of financial matters and the education sector, and experience in managing people.

How do I become a trustee?

There should be information about who is on the board and how to make contact on your school's website. You can also ask your school about going along to a board meeting to see how it works. The board chair or any other board member can also answer questions about what the board does. Contact your school if you want to find out about standing for election, nominating someone else or voting in the election - they will be happy to help.

Help make our roads safer - Blue Light driving programme

Do you have a couple of spare hours every week to spend with a young person who needs to get their driving hours up?

Perhaps you have a friend/neighbour/family member who might fit the bill?

Blue Light run a driver mentoring programme that helps support young people through the graduated driver licence system, all the way to their full licence. We provide the vehicle, education and money for testing, we just need some help from local volunteers. Each of our volunteers is matched with a young person to head out in our car each week. You don't need to have previous experience in teaching people to drive, we will help train you.

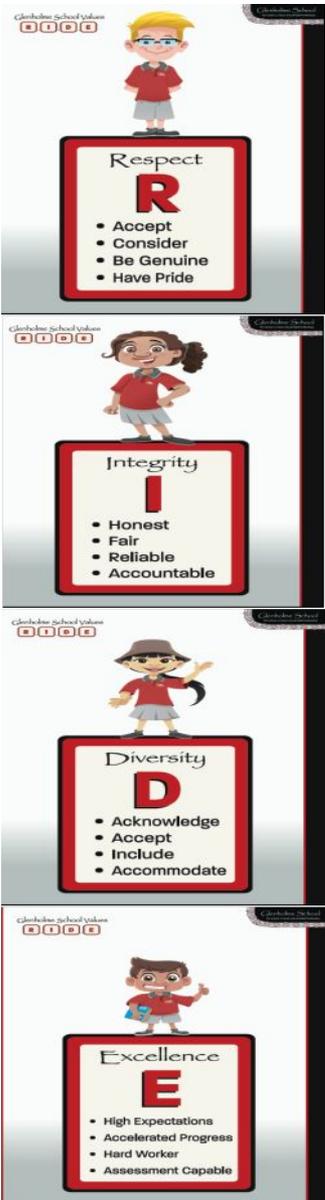

We are running a no obligation info evening so that you can come and hear all about it. Please share this email with your friends/neighbours/family members, so that we can get a few interested people along to:
